

DETROIT RADIO

Our October Creation Research broadcast on Detroit radio (USA) brought tremendous response from as far south as St. Louis in the USA, and north to Ontario in Canada.

CANADIAN SCHOOLS

The first two weeks of October saw five Canadian public schools open their doors to lectures from Creation Research. This gave further opportunity to test some lessons for the Course being devised for the Canadian School Board which has asked for help in implementing Creation. All were received positively, and this has been further encouragement to us. This project does need financial support. Pray for Dr. Diane Eager from Canberra University who is currently working on the second half of this project, and pray particularly we will have the funds to allocate time for staff to dedicate several months to finish this project in 1995. If your church is looking for a mission project, suggest they financially support this one.

MANCHESTER UNIVERSITY

Three days of meetings with students from Manchester University (UK) led to some noisy question times but the success of these meetings has opened more doors to other UK universities.

WHAT IS IN A NAME?

Recently a young American baby was given the name Atheist Evolution Rollinson by her parents who insist God had nothing to do with the birth of their daughter. George and Tina Rollinson say their daughter's name is their answer to the use of Biblical names. The Rollinsons have clashed with their school district over angel decorations in the classroom, and Bibles in the library. While one can feel sorry for the little girl stuck with such a label, it really does indicate the increasing antagonism of American people to Christianity and Creation, and the widespread concept that evolution is the opposite of Christianity. How sad that theologians who promote theistic evolution do not see so clearly as the average unbeliever. (Source: USA Today, Sept. 8, 1994, 1D)

UK FIELD TRIP SUCCESS

A first ever Creation Research Field Trip for the public in the UK resulted in a bus load plus a car load of people enjoying a successful, cool, moist day in the fossil fields of Derbyshire in October.

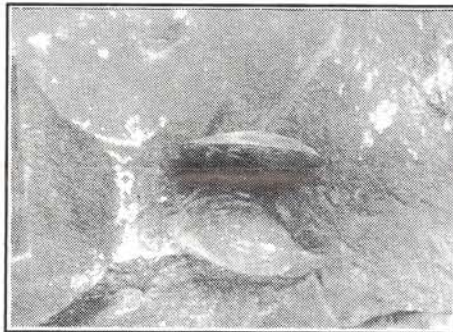

Since the age of the earth is one of the biggest problems English people ask about, one theme for the day was "How Long Did Rocks Take to Form?". England is overawed with supposed scientific evidence the world is billions of years old; therefore, at best, the Bible can be taken as a piece of poetry on the origin of the world. The discoveries of the day (photographed below) illustrated to everyone attending from PhD students to professional Science teachers, to high school students and ordinary folks off the street, that the rocks were rapidly formed. Fresh water mussels were found by the billions, all lying horizontal, and closed in coal beds. Their fresh water mussel relatives today, live vertically in the mud, and open when they die. A young lady doing her doctorate in geography commented she was going to have to "re-think things quite a bit."

Digging for Fossils

One site showed solid oil gelled into the rocks, which glued the boundary between two supposed eras together, as a layer of broken shattered rocks. Overwhelming evidence of quick burial (so that the fatty material of the animals was trapped so it could form oil) then rapid catastrophic change from one rock type to another produced the shattered surface between the limestone beds and the coal layers.

DARWIN'S FISHY

The Devil is a great copycat. Now being distributed in the USA is the Christian fish symbol with the word Darwin inside, and dangling below are two little feet. Humanists in the USA are now sporting the Fishy bumper stickers on cars, etc. This aggressive marketing of evolution is another sign of increasing polarization of society into fundamental evolutionists vs Biblical Creationists. When will the Christian public wake up to the fact that the chief attack on the Bible, is, at its root, caused by evolutionary humanists. All the isms and philosophies of the new age at, at core, evolutionary.

UK DECLINE

Daily Mail, October 12, 1994, reported a poll which revealed 2/3 of British young people no longer know right from wrong, and few can even name three of the Ten Commandments. Only half believe there are any definite rights and wrongs! The article concludes that "if something does not happen, then young people have only one way to go, and that is down." The article failed to mention that if you remove the absolutes of God as Creator from home and school, you destroy the parents' and teachers' ability to enforce discipline, and children grow up believing they are the chance products of evolution, and become the victims of it. They can no longer believe in right or wrong. When you teach young people they are animals, most will grow to be that. Pray for us as we work in schools to remind people man is made in God's image, and that God has the right to make the rules, and we have no right to break them.

HAVE YOU MET RUSSELL?

This was the question asked at lunch recently in Wales. When John Mackay replied "No," the enthusiastic young daughter of the host said, "but he became a Christian after your Creation Research meeting here last year in Newtown, and he is really going on strong in the Lord." After the youth meeting at church that night, I asked to be introduced to Russell, who really did glow with the joy of the Lord. Russell shared how he had only been to church once before my visit, and found it boring, but was searching, and asked many people about the Bible, but did not receive any satisfactory answers. Some told him he did not have to worry about issues like creation, others told him that some parts of the Bible were true, and other parts weren't. Some told him Adam and Eve were just a story with a point. Russell shared that none of those statements made any sense to him as an unbeliever at all. When he was brought along to the youth meeting in Newtown last year, the Lord had prepared the night so that it answered all of his questions. Russell became a Christian shortly after, and has since been actively involved in ministry. Pray for Russell and many other young people like him, and that we will continue to see a rich harvest of souls for the Lord Jesus Christ. It is a pleasure to actually meet some of these people rather than just get letters from them or hear about them through others.

UK SCHOOLS

A science master in Liverpool invited us to speak to several hundred high school students. Over a hot school lunch, the chemistry master informed us he had used Creation Research videos in class, and found them really helpful, and "please, could we supply him with a creation curriculum when it was ready, because he would love to try and make use of it in the UK public school system." Please pray for teachers who are in senior positions, and are keen to find some way of bringing Creation into their public syllabus. Continue to pray for our education curriculum, as it is attracting much attention in schools around the world at present.

ORIGIN OF THE RACES BACKUP!

Following a recent screening of our Origin of the Races research, an Indian man shared with us, "You are right, but it goes much further than what you know. In our own Sama Veda ancient religious writings, there are prophecies which the priests have kept to themselves." The Indian wrote them down for Creation Research, both in Sanskrit, and in English. The original (in English script) plus translation reads as follows: lishchya goparam mahathyo ddahina kuryanthi avya yana paryatha seen which literally means "The one who is going to be born will appear in the womb of a virgin and be born in a cattle shed."

We had previously discovered the ancient Indian Vedas contain references to the story of Noah and the Flood, and many other things showing Indian people are the descendants of those that left the Tower of Babel, highlighting the urgency of the Biblical command "go into all the world and preach the gospel." No race has any excuse, the evidence is in their cultural stories, handed down orally, or in their written scriptures, where they possess them. The Indian man also shared "Prajapathir devebhya anthmanam yagnam yagnam kruthva prayaschit." Translation: "Lord of the people will be born, will sacrifice himself and make atonement for sins." Reference Sama Veda — Thandia Maha

YOUNG FOSSIL

John Young, UK administrative rep for Creation Research is pictured here on a recent field trip beside the remains of a 38 feet tall vertical fossil tree. His hammer rests beside the outline of the tree. Even the field guides in England are now saying these trees had to be buried rapidly. It is encouraging to see how people react who have never seen these before. When they get a hands-on experience Field Trip, their fear of the experts' "millions of years" disappears. Pray for us as we organize more Field Trips around the world.

QUALITY VIDEO

"I first became aware of your work last spring. I now have two of your videos and am really impressed with your format that goes right out on the field . . . Would you please contact Dr. M.A. Thomas about setting up a center in India for distributing your materials on Creation Science" Gary Branscome, LaVergne, TN. USA.

PROFESSOR SAYS

Thank you from the bottom of my heart for the material you sent both to Northern Ireland and to Hungary. It all arrived in very good order. Please assure the friends who make the gift of these materials possible that they will be put to good use. Not only will they be used in the university where I teach but also in a theological seminary and grammar school where I am to give some guest lectures. I have just been joined here in Hungary by two colleagues. One is from the US and will teach Apologetics. The other is a Scot from Perth (in Scotland). He will teach Biblical Studies. Like me, they are very grateful for the work you are doing and thank you for the material you have sent. Professor Dr. R.E.I. Rodgers, Hungary.

KIWI

"I have heard some of your tapes on creation versus evolution and they are on the button (good stuff)." John Dean, Upper Hutt, New Zealand.

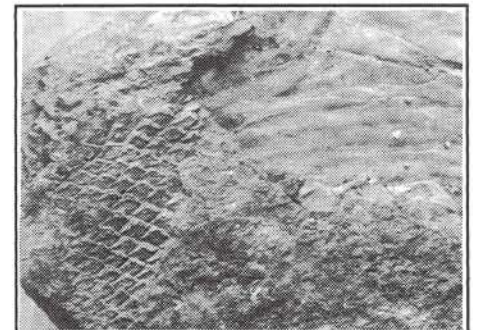

ORIGINS IN RUSSIA

Anglican pastor's wife, Mrs. Edith

Mullins, reports from Russia . . . "In the city of Aktan are two Bible Studies, one for the Kazaks and the other for the Russians . . . There are two missionary couples and one single man working there involved in leading the Bible Study Groups. So far there are eight Kazaks who have made Christian profession. No one in the Russian groups has made a commitment to the Lord, except the interpreter. But it is this group that we witnessed the Spirit at work unfolding the truths to them. They are going through the Bible chronologically and had just finished the Tower of Babel when we arrived. I gave Origin of the Races to the missionary couple. They thought it very good, had it translated immediately." Continue to pray for this program and for the funds to complete Part 2.

WELSH RESEARCH

A recent Creation Research ministry trip to Wales accompanied by Jill and Steve Dyer, brought to light the following gap in the geologic column.

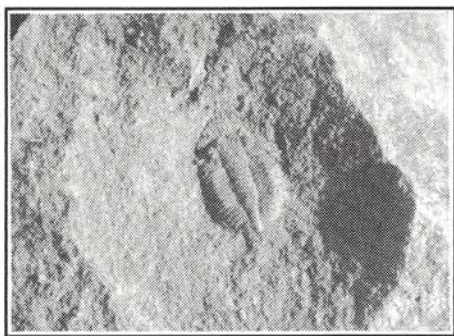

New strata on old.

Recent glacial action had catastrophically ripped the top off Welsh precambrian rocks, and formed new strata now cemented on top of the old. The time missing is roughly 700 million years. Such on-site research gives us the backing to confront evolutionists in schools and universities with evidence they don't have a geological column showing billions of years of history; therefore, their objections to the Biblical record of six days of creation and Noah's Flood are not factual, but blind faith.

The research trip also brought to light the following trilobites which, like their dead cousins found on the Canadian Field Trip, only point to the complexity of creatures right from the start. The eye lobes which can be seen clearly in these specimens from Wales (now in our Creation Research collection), possess complex double lensing systems brilliantly designed by God to cope with optical refraction under water. Trilobites possessed these from the beginning. They never had to evolve them. Trilobites sadly seem to be extinct at present, but that does not help evolutionists, since the number of creatures becoming extinct run into the thousands, and the number of creatures evolving is zero.

TENNESSEE SCHOOLS OPEN

After debating Judge Galbrath, who put creation out of the Tennessee school system, then defeating the head of the geology department of Vanderbilt University in a publicly broadcast debate, the public schools in Tennessee have started to open their doors to Creation Research. Three requests from public schools in one week have enabled us to have a great time with students, encouraging them to believe the facts for creation. Pray for further negotiations with public school teachers in Tennessee.

KENTUCKY SCHOOLS

A phone call from a public school in Albany, Kentucky, asked us to spend the day talking to all students. Despite the gloom and doom amongst many Christians, the Lord is doing things out there, and particularly opening doors for Creation Research in the public school arena. Thank you for your prayers, which God uses to open doors. Pray for the high schools in Kentucky that are to be supplied with the Creation curriculum when it is available, and continue to support this vital project.

HUNGARY (for information)

"I am a student at the University of Miskolc. I am majored in geology, and have recently started my ninth semester. I am to graduate in 1995 . . . My fiancée is in her third year in Teachers Training College, she studies, American, English, and Biology. Both of us speak English.

"In the last year John Mackay from Creation Research Australia had a series of three lectures on the topic of Creation in Miskolc University. Most of the students were really shocked by them. For me as a student of geology it was a new experience, and I have learned a lot in defending my faith about Creation, and I was convinced again how important it was that I could argue about it . . . My fiancée and I are searching for scholarships at Institutes where Creation or its Scientific disciplines can be studied from a Christian point of view in English. If there is an opportunity to spend a semester or two studying Creation, we would be pleased to be informed. We attend to the Brethren Assembly in our city. We are born again Christians, believing in the redeeming work of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the divine inspiration of the Bible."

Editor's Comment — We have sent Tamas Madarasz and his fiancée the information they need. At present there is no finance to support them doing 3-6 months of study at a college or institute or field work where they can learn about the scientific and Biblical aspects of Creation. Anyone able to assist, contact us concerning these two.

BUGGING EVOLUTION

Standard evolutionary theory states that insects and flowers evolved at the same time. Obviously a necessity since insects are dependent upon flowers and flowers depend on insects in most cases. All has been shattered by the discoveries of John Sepkowski Jr. (University of Chicago). His study of thousands of records of fossil insects has brought to light that according to evolutionary dating of rocks and arranging of fossils, insects were on earth "120 million years before the appearance of flowering plants." Sepkowski assembled a picture of insect evolution by tracing 1263 insect families which revealed (according to the evolutionary time scale), the first insects appeared 390 million years ago, and the first flowering plants, 125 million years ago. (Source: Nexus, p.16 Nov/Dec 1993).

Editor's Comment: It is our prediction that as rock records are studied in greater detail more such dilemmas will become apparent. If insects were successful for 125 million years before plants appeared, then they had no need of flowering plants so there was no need to evolve dependence upon flowers, many of which have specific lock and key devices to fit only certain insects. The design of the insect/flower relationship is too neat for chance. It is exactly what you would expect from Biblical Creation.

NEW RACIAL FURORE

A new book on races by Dr. Charles Murray entitled The Bell Curve is inflaming the USA by suggesting that "blacks are genetically less intelligent than whites, and that low intelligence leads to crime, illegitimacy, and a permanently welfare-dependent underclass." Dr. Murray's book reports the well known fact that black Americans score between 10 and 15 points below the average on IQ tests. But he attributes this to hereditary, rather than environmental upbringing. Mr. Murray argues that with modern America rewarding intelligence, computer skills and high IQ performance, it will only succeed in producing a permanent underclass that lacks the intelligence ever to make good.

With this sort of explosive material coming on the market, can you see the need for the continued project on the Origin of the Races which points out that all of us, black or white, high IQ or low IQ, have one ancestor Adam, and one basic problem, sin, which produces so many of our cultural difficulties, and therefore we all need one Saviour, Jesus Christ. The simple command of the New Testament is "Let the mind of Christ be in you" (Philippians 2:5). Pray for the continuation of the Origin of the Races project in the new year, and for all necessary funds to be provided for it.
